

RCM&D

- Situation For more than 125 years, RCM&D has provided innovative solutions to meet complex insurance, risk management, and employment benefit needs in a broad spectrum of industry categories including education, healthcare, construction, real estate, technology and non-profits. In 2010, RCM&D developed a new logo, tagline, website, stationery suite and templates for commonly used documents. Their new identity package put a modern, vital face on a company over a century old. Once developed they asked Channel Communications to refine the application of their new identity and further articulate their brand's messaging. In 2013, RCM&D expanded the assignment to include a positioning refinement, plus a complete communications audit across all the company's practices, and a comprehensive messaging plan.
- Solution Working within the character of RCM&D's graphic identity, Channel focused on the ampersand graphic to represent the "something more, something extra" that clients experience working with each RCM&D practitioner and employee. Additionally, Channel provided creative support and ideas for a variety of projects including building signage, web flash elements, posters, advertising templates, and tradeshow banner-ups. The ampersand-focused graphics are being carried forward throughout all the RCM&D's professional practices group to present a unified, modern face wherever the company goes.
- Result RCM&D has an expressive and re-energized brand. The new messaging captures the organization's client service culture. With its new branding, and upcoming work to redesign their collateral RCM&D will now be ready to compete for another 125 years.
